Nifty remains constrained within the Broadening formation. A breach above 11300 would open the move towards 11377-11500 while 11000 remains a critical support for the ongoing upmove. As per its weekly rising channel formation its close proximity towards its upper end remains the concern as its momentum indicators have been oscillating in their respective overbought zones. Hence its ideal to remain cautious from hereon & restrict trades to intraday & short term itself with more emphasis on stock specific trade setups on either side. Weakness if any would only need validation below 10880 for any larger degree corrective move. As per the derivative data its key bounds been placed at 11500 on the upside while 11000 being the key supports for the markets going ahead. For the week expect Niftys upside to remain capped once around 11377- 11500 while its support rests at 11000-10900 respectively.
